

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)

I had proposed writing sooner, but when I left New Jersey I was busy in New York a few days, so I had no time to even ascend the World's towering building or the Madison Square tower to see the roof gardens of New York, where those dwelling on "flats" run up to the top of the house and walk amid blooming flowers laden with a pure air than is found six or ten stories below.

On Friday we took the Fall River line of elegant boats crowded with a couple of thousand people, so that mattresses covered every available space after filling the state-rooms. By Saturday noon we had passed the "Hub" and did not even stop to see Bunker Hill. "The King's business requires haste," Saturday night the work began at Old Orchard, Me. Along the sea Maine seemed to be much like Florida, sand and marshy places. Its chief visible products were grass and granite. Houses neat; barns good; marsh grass being cut and stowed away.

Old Orchard is situated on the inner bend of the coast, hardly a bay, some 20 or 30 miles beyond Portland, and near a town of several thousand, connected with it by electric cars. O. O. has a scattered population of several hundred; probably a half dozen large frame hotels, fine beach, much bathing, good fish, and, to my surprise, ripening peaches. The apples and pears and grapes seemed abundant for a new town, but the prices at the stores were rather high. Corn in gardens was about three feet high and four to eight stalks from the same hill if not the same root! But I only saw little, save the convention. Was in bathing half an hour; never visited the neighboring town or went out into the country to see how it looked back of the pine, maple and birch clad coast.

The following programme for one day will explain why: At 6:30 a. m., morning prayer meeting; 9 a. m., praise meeting; 10:30 a. m., preaching by Rev. A. B. Simpson, continued till 12 o'clock; 1 p. m., children's meeting; 2 p. m., addresses by Mr. Fuller, of India, Mrs. Baker, of Chicago, and Mr. Helm, continued till 5 p. m.; 7 p. m., young ladies' meeting, and at another place, ministers' meeting; 7:30, evening service, addresses by Rev. Scofield, of Texas, and Farr, of N. Y. Training College. These services were full of enthusiasm, songs sung over and over, if not sung with whole-heartedness, and prayers. The entire hour, or hour and a half, in the morning prayer meeting was devoted to prayers, rising from many lips, one after the other, before we left our knees; songs sung by all, or as a voluntary, anywhere in the audience that one was moved by the Holy Spirit. A young colored woman often sang and did so with good voice, in good taste and showed in all her conduct wonderful spiritual enlightenment, with the negro aptness of expression.

The order of the convention was much the same as that at Asbury. Testimony meetings, Bible study, addresses, sermons, occasionally, and much prayer and praise. These latter elements, with testimonies, were probably the most marked feature.

One morning a lady led the prayer meeting and under God's hand she held the audience down on knees for more than half an hour in silent prayer for every missionary in the Alliance by name. It is her custom to do this every day in her own closet. No wonder this cultivated wife of a Presbyterian elder has grace and courage to go down into the dice and slums of New York every week to rescue fallen women and bring them, like the good Samaritan, to her "Door of Hope." The writer is greatly indebted to her prayers during his hours of trial several years since. Backed by a spiritually-minded husband, she is doing a noble and Christ-like work for that most-benefited of all classes.

We also had a man of God and his wife even more full of the Spirit, and a singer there with their gospel wagon. Between 5 and 7 p. m. we would fill it up with singers and workers and go down to the beach and preach 10-minute sermons, then sing the sweet gospel story and then have hand to hand work in the large crowd that gathered around from the beach in the cool of the evening. This is going out and compelling them to come in, and reaches many in cities not otherwise reached.

B. HELM.

We are bound to rejoice in Mike Sauley's triumph. We remember him in the old days at the University when he used to chop logic all day in Prof. Pinkerton's class and dream all night of nothing but the major and minor premises. He is in every respect thoroughly fitted for the office to which he aspires, and he will be overwhelmingly elected. It was the people to whom he presented his claims this time, and not the political trickster who robbed him of a seat on the Superior Court bench. Mike, we doff our hat and make you our prettiest bow.—Richmond Register.

Chairman Carroll has called a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee to be held in Louisville Sept. 1.

CRAB ORCHARD.

Several of our people attended the London fair, among whom were Mrs. Alice Newland, Misses Maud Pettus and Nannie Edulston and Mr. W. J. Edulston.

The Middleborough State Guards, who encamped at Crab Orchard Springs, broke camp Wednesday. While here they departed themselves in gentlemanly manner.

Crab Orchard has a sensation in the way of a preacher. Miss Fanny Edwards, a beautiful blonde of 12 summers, is addressing crowded houses at the Christian church.

Mrs. Mary Hunter received a telegram Friday morning from Flora, Ill., stating that her daughter, Mrs. Lizzie McClure, died suddenly. Her son, John Hunter, left immediately for Flora.

The box supper given Tuesday night at College Hall was a very nice affair. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the crowd was not extra large. The receipts were $23.50. After supper those who desired engaged in dancing.

Col. D. G. Slaughter has closed Green Briar Springs for this season, and has moved his family to the Kennedy property on Stanford street. Mr. Albert Skinner, of Bryansville, is at his sister's, Mrs. C. C. McClure. Miss Susie Martin has returned after a visit to Stanford. Miss Lizzie Buchanan, of Knoxville, is visiting relatives here.

Miss Bettie Henry, of Lancaster, is the guest of Miss Lizzie Beasley. E. B. Smith, editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal, was in town Saturday. We do not know what success he had with his paper, but he beat the boys playing chess. Mrs. Mary Morgan, of Toledo, will spend a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Gorinby.

Mrs. Katie Farris, of Danville, was visiting relatives here last week. Mrs. Dr. Scott and her son, Thomas Scott, of Somerset, are guests of Mrs. Laura Moore. Mr. Tom Middleton and daughter, Miss Emma, of Harrodsburg, were here one day last week. Mr. Newt Johnson and sister, Miss Ellen, of Mercer county, are visiting the family of Dr. J. D. Pettus.

Lebanon Letter.

Lebanon, Aug. 26.—To-day closed the Second Annual Exhibition of the New Marion County Stock Fair Association. The exceedingly polite secretary, Mr. T. Horace Cleland, says that the attendance was considerably larger than last year. There were probably 5,000 people on the grounds on this, the last day.

Mr. A. Everhart Hundley was the starter in all the races this week, and he did the thing up in the most approved style. Charley Crow filled the responsible position of one of the timers. The race track (half mile) is one of the best in the State and at a glance it can be seen that a horse ought to "get up and dust" on it. All of the races this week were exciting and the last one to-day, in which Lady Euclid and Quinine S. were the favorites, was particularly so. The Lady won.

The dinner given by the Lebanon ladies (for a reasonable sum) on the grounds, included everything palatable and such a crowd in a similar dining room is seldom seen. As "waiters," or anything else, the ladies of this city can not be beaten, especially Mrs. Albert Jenkins and her attractive daughter, Miss Fannie, who were unusually attentive to the INTERIOR JOURNAL representative.

Mr. Phil Soden was the engineer of the excursion train from Lancaster and Stanford to the fair and all those who are accustomed to traveling over the L. & N. know that you "sail" when he is at the throttle. I did not hear the time made the day I came down, but he seemed to have started to break his record that day and I believe he did it.

Among the innumerable visitors here during the fair is the genial L. C. Alcorn, of Greensburg. While a resident of Stanford "Wink" was always a favorite. Of course this is the case at Greensburg and will be wherever is his abiding place.

Palmer, the 2-year-old On Time stallion of A. E. Hundley, has been shown 13 times and won 13 blues, several of which he found in the sweepstake ring. Everhart's Ellen Owsley has won 9 out of 9 chances. She is a yearling by Red Squirrel and has a bright future.

The large number of Lincoln and Boyle gentlemen who left their wives at home and came to the fair have been swinging the best looking young ladies right and left. I presume and assert that is what they call making hay while the sun shines. J. F. W.

A Cynthia girl breaks the record on the mother question, so far as we have heard. She has had a mother, an adopted mother, a step-mother, an adopted step-mother and six grandmothers. All she needs now to make her joys complete is a mother-in-law. And as our informant says that the young lady of many mothers is young, pretty and has money, she will doubtless have that crowning joy ere long.—Bourbon News.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Granville Haley, aged about 30 died Friday of peritonitis at his home at Rowland. A post-mortem was held by Dr. L. B. Cook, assisted by Drs. J. G. Carpenter and D. E. Proctor, when it was found that all the peritoneum, together with the vermiform appendix, had sloughed away. Mr. Haley was a steady and worthy young man and much sympathy is felt for the young wife and child, who survive him. The remains were interred in Buffalo Cemetery, Saturday afternoon, in the presence of a large assembly of friends.

Mrs. Porter C. Sandidge, after a year's illness of consumption, died Friday and was buried the following day in Buffalo Cemetery. A few years ago, when she was led to the altar a beautiful bride, there was every indication that a long and happy life would be hers, but the fell destroyer came in the flush of a bright young womanhood and rudely snatched her from her doting husband and promising boy. She had given her heart to God long before, however, and death had no terrors for her, though she would have liked to have lived for her husband and child if God had willed it. Her maiden name was Shewade Beasley and three sisters, Misses Lucy, Lizzie and Mary Beasley survive her. May the family so rudely broken on earth be reunited in Heaven, is the prayer of the friends of sisters and husband.

POSTMAN.—Squire Matthew Coffey Portman after several weeks' illness, died about midnight, Friday, aged 77. Rheumatism and heart disease were the causes of his death. Squire Portman was born in Casey county July 18, 1815, and was one of 10 brothers, all of whom have passed away but William Portman, who lives in Texas. His early life was spent in merchandizing in Hustonville, where he was quite successful. He was married three times, his first wife, a sister of Mr. John Blain, living only a short time after giving birth to a daughter, who became the wife of G. F. Peacock. His second wife was Miss Mary Embry, a sister of Mr. S. J. Embry and Mrs. Cath Bailey. Two of the children of this union are alive, Mrs. W. H. Miller and Jos. E. Portman. His third wife was Mrs. Eliza Gentry, who was a Miss Lunceford, and she with two children, Mrs. Lizzie McAllister and Mrs. Robert Fenzel, survive him. After his marriage to Miss Embry he went to keeping hotel in Stanford. The building afterwards burned and he built the present Myers House during the war. He kept it for a number of years and made much reputation as a landlord. Shortly after the war he bought a farm in Garrard and moved to it, remaining there for a number of years, when he again came to Stanford, where he followed brick making and contracting for some time and then bought an interest in the St. Asaph Hotel, which he kept till this year, when he sold out to Farris & Harlin, on account of his age and failing health. He was a member of the Baptist church for years and a conscientious and upright man. The funeral procession was one of the longest ever seen in Stanford. Rev. A. V. Sizemore, assisted by Rev. W. E. Ellis, held a short service at the grave and Buffalo Cemetery had another added to its fast increasing population.

Squire Portman was a man of very fine sense and keen appreciation of humor. His fund of anecdotes was inexhaustible and he was always the centre of an admiring crowd of talkers. He was a man of liberal views, but when once convinced of the justice of a cause or object, he was invincible in his opinion. A long and useful career ended when the breath left his body and there is general sorrow over the fact that Squire Portman is no more.

MIDDLEBURG, CASEY COUNTY.

There is not a colored person living in this town or close by.

A misplaced switch on the C. K. & S. threw No. 7 off Friday and delayed the mail for several hours.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Mt. Olive under management of Bro. Ballou and other ministers of Somerset.

Supt. Hoskins was around this week in the interest of the schools and urging the people to attend the institute to be held next week at Liberty.

All those who left here for the state contract of Coulter & Wilcher in Lee county, have returned home except John Coulter, the head book keeper.

Declaration of Nomination.

The democratic committee of the 13th judicial district met at Danville, August 27th, 1892, and after a count of the vote cast at the primary election held August 20, 1892, M. C. Sauley was declared the nominee of the democratic party for circuit judge and J. S. Owsley, Jr., the nominee for Commonwealth's attorney, they having received the largest number of votes cast. Sauley's total vote in the district was 2,370, Noel's 885, Breckinridge 737 and Owsley 3,567.

By order of the committee.

The I. J. Man at London and Other Points.

The week just closed has truly been a gala one in London and the lovers of gaiety are indeed sorry that it is numbered with the things that were. In the first place it was fair week and an immense crowd was present. Secondly, it was the week for the formal opening of the Catching Hotel, and lastly, it was the week when each Londonite vied with the other to make it pleasant for the stranger who was in their gates.

The fair was a success and from the large crowds in attendance each day it must have been a decided success financially. The show rings were well filled and most of the races and running races were well contested. Bob Jackson's fine stallion, Randall, won two races, as did his fine thoroughbred, Polly Hughes. Mr. Jackson is his own driver and jockey and proved himself a man of many parts. George S. Carpenter, of Stanford, took the blue tie in the roadster ring with one of his fine gray horses.

The opening of the Catching Hotel on Thursday night was a grand affair indeed and will live long in the memory of those who attended. The commodious dining room was converted into a ball room and until three o'clock Friday morning it was a scene of merriment not frequently witnessed. The Italian band from Rockcastle Springs furnished the music, which was a feature of the evening. Along about midnight a delightful lunch was served which was liberally partaken of by the happy young folks.

The Catching Hotel is an ornament to London and it would be to a town five times its size. It is a handsome three-story brick with granite trimmings and modern in every particular. It is supplied with water throughout by an immense tank on top and is lighted with gas made especially for the hotel. It is a daisy sure enough and the fare is one of the many big features.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. John Pearl entertained in honor of Misses Lucille Joplin, of Mt. Vernon, and Bessie Adams, of Paint Lick. That occasion also proved a delightful affair and will not soon be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to be present. Mrs. Pearl very thoughtfully prepared a nice supper consisting of ices and substantial and it is needless to say that full justice was done to it.

London is still building and is forging to the front at a lively speed. It has more substantial business houses than any town of its size in my knowledge and is not behind in handsome and comfortable homes. At present it looks as if her prospect is most flattering and would be a good place to invest a little surplus in real estate.

From London I went to Corbin, which is itself a town of no small importance. The carpenter's hammer can be heard on all hands and I was surprised at the advancement made since I was there some five months ago.

I also visited Pittsburg, East Bernstadt and Altamont and while those places are holding their own fairly well, not much can be said of their improvement. They are good mining towns, however, and many a car-load of the black diamond is shipped daily.

The promised address by certain members of the Legislature was issued Saturday and purports to be an argument against the governor's position that, according to the constitution a bill must receive a majority on its final passage, to make it a law that will run the gamut of the courts. It is couched in respectful language, but the pleadings are so entirely ex parte that the position it takes will not fool even the wary farmer man, who was silly enough to vote for the new constitution in the hope that legislators and officers were to be governed by it.

A writer at Middlesboro thinks there are really good grounds for the hope that a democrat can be elected to Congress in the bloody 11th this fall, but we fear he is too sanguine. His reason for the hope within him is that Wilson only beat the democratic candidate in 1890 3,150 votes and Woods' plurality last year in the district was 2,600. A bitter war is being waged between Wilson and Colson, with strong indications that it cannot be healed. A good democrat, he thinks, with taking qualities, can with a little campaign funds redeem the district. So note it.

The switchmen were so angry with Master Workman Sweeney for declaring the strike at Buffalo off that a mob gathered around him and one of the men struck him several savage blows, breaking his nose and otherwise injuring him. They claim that he was bribed by the railroad companies to issue the orders he did. This shows to what length the desperate strikers will go. Most of them are out of jobs now, as the railroad companies decline to rehire them and in desperation they are catching to any kind of a pretext to cover their own foolish behavior.

The alarming spread of cholera has awakened the U. S. authorities to the importance of adopting a most thorough system of quarantine. It is very unfortunate for the Americans who have been traveling in Europe. They can't come home and if they stay there they will die, a position very similar to being on that narrow strip between hell and the iron works.

The report that Hon. John W. Yerkes will shy his castor into the ring and try to be elected circuit judge over the democratic nominee, Judge Sautley, seems to be without foundation. Mr. Yerkes is too smart a man to thus defy the juggernaut and be ground to powder. Capt. Wm. Herndon is the only man willing to become a sacrifice and he will be beaten even easier than rolling off a log.

There is hope for the country yet. Mr. Watterson has at last acknowledged that he is not infallible. He said the other day: "The political situation in New York surprises me. Two months ago I believed it impossible for Cleveland to carry the State. I am almost quite as well convinced now that he will carry it."

Several of the leaders of the Coal Creek mob find themselves in a pretty bad fix. They are in jail without bail and many who could get out if they could give bail, find it hard work to get bondsmen. It is a serious thing to take the law into one's hands in this country.

SPEAKER MOORE has an ambition to out-Czar Reed in his rulings and tyrannical ways. His latest effort to rule in a most unparliamentary fashion and then forbid an appeal on it. Moore ought to go and bathe his throbbing brow in ice water. It is getting too large for his hat.

The attorney general having decided that the law authorizes the auditor to pay his agents and that he should continue to pay them, it is hoped that the Legislature will have sense enough to pass a bill that will stop this tremendous leak to the treasury.

The Hopkinsville News Era celebrated the opening of the O. & N. railroad to its city by issuing a double number that is a credit both to the editorial and mechanical departments of the paper. It is liberally illustrated and a fine edition in every way.

The Covington Record sententiously remarks: If the Courier-Journal had been as sorry before as it is after the adoption of the constitution, and had kept its sorry well in hand, perhaps it wouldn't be as sorry to-day as it is.

It is telegraphed from Springfield that the republicans have decided not to pit a candidate against McCreary. They had just as well not. No republican will ever beat the governor in this district.

The London Echo has declared for Col. Silas Adams for Congress. That settles it. Walk up, colonel, and be sworn into office.

—John M. Burke, of Boise, Idaho, has been nominated by the democrats for governor.

NEWSY NOTES.

—Gertie Carmo, an aeronaut, fell 300 feet from a balloon trapeze, at Detroit, and was instantly killed.

—H. L. Williams fell 500 feet from a balloon at Staunton, Va., and strange to say was not fatally hurt.

—The Metropolitan Opera-house in New York, was almost ruined by fire. The estimated loss is $400,000.

—Green Kennedy was killed and Holly Meaux badly hurt by an engine at Lawrenceburg. Both negroes.

—W. W. Blackwell, of Henderson, Ky., was elected Supreme Chancellor of the Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias.

—Governor Brown has pardoned the directors of the Nicholasville fair for permitting gambling on their grounds last year.

—Monroe Daniels' skull was crushed like an eggshell by a board flying from the saw at Morris Mill in Marion county.

—Dennis Blackwell was taken from the jail by a mob at Alamo, Tenn., and banged for attempting rape on a young lady.

—Mrs. Malinda Crump was sentenced at Greenup to serve seven years in the penitentiary for the murder of her husband.

—J. K. Morton was hung at Camden, N. J., Friday. The doomed man stood the ordeal bravely, but the sheriff fainted from excitement.

—After an unsuccessful attempt to poison her husband, Ella Shingledecker, of Bourbon, Ind., drove nails in his ears. She is under arrest.

—At Augusta, Ga., fire destroyed several business houses, including the office of the Chronicle newspaper. Loss $400,000; insurance $300,000.

—Sam Epp killed B. Houser in Polaski and then tried to cut his own throat with a butcher knife, but failed to produce death. Both were drunk.

—A dispatch from Middlesboro says Ed Ross shot and killed Abe Thurston at a negro dance. Both were drunk and the dispute arose over a woman.

—Bicyclist P. J. Berlo rode two miles on Hampden Park, Springfield, Mass., in 4:43 2-5, breaking the world's record of 4:48 4-5 made by Taylor last fall.

—Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge has been declared the democratic nominee for Congress in the 7th district, no opponent having announced himself.

—Col. W. A. Taylor, democratic candidate for secretary of State of Ohio, claims that the State will go democratic in the fall by a plurality of at least 20,000.

—The rope broke the first time the sheriff attempted to hang Edwin Green, at Blue Ridge, Ga., and he fell to the ground. The second trial broke his neck.

—After being in a deadlock for 48 hours, the Democratic Congressional Convention of the 12th Texas district, Saturday night, nominated Tom Paschal for Congress.

—The Vice Consul General at Teheran telegraphs that the estimated deaths in Persia from cholera are 35,000; 5,000 in Meshed; 12,000 in Tabriz; 8,000 in Teheran and 10,000 in other places.

—There is something in a name. Five inches of rain poured down on Watertown, N. Y., last Thursday, while up in Carter county, Ky., there isn't a drop of water in Hell-for-Sartin.—Lou. Times.

—Onyx of the finest quality has been uncovered at Middlesboro. The area of the quarry is about 300 acres and a company after a thorough investigation, has determined to erect works and develop it.

—The probable suicide of Mrs. Rose Templin, at St. Louis, has led to the discovery that she was driven to it by her inhuman husband, who confined her in a madhouse and debauched their eldest daughter.

—The members of the General Assembly opposing concurrence in the governor's vetoes are discussing the feasibility of calling a democratic caucus to determine whether or not the vetoes shall be sustained.

—A judge in Mississippi, where screens are not permitted over doors and windows of saloons, has decided that it is an indictable offense for a man to hide behind an umbrella while taking a drink in a saloon.

—The Associated Press dispatches from London state that there is no doubt that cholera has appeared in England. Two passengers who arrived at Gravesend from Hamburg were taken sick. The doctors pronounced their malady cholera. Additional cases are reported from Hamburg and Havre and the dread disease has also appeared in Berlin and Wittenberg.

Willow Grove, Boyle County.

—One night last week while W. T. Ward was away from home some dogs made a raid on his sheep and killed two fine ones before Mr. Gentry and his workmen, who live near, were awakened by the noise. They immediately ran over and succeeded in killing the dogs, and were surprised to see some burglars running away from Mr. Ward's house.

They had opened the shutters and gone in, but were frightened away by the firing of the guns before any depredations were made.—L. C. Boley leaves Tuesday for Campbellsville, where he will take charge of a select school. Leslie is quite a promising young man and we wish him much success with his work. Mrs. Jennie Carpenter, of Hustonville, and Miss Jennie King, of Winchester, who visited Mrs. J. H. Swope last week, have returned to their homes. Miss Salie Mock, of Lexington, is with the Misses Pipes this week. Miss Doyce Talbot, Lawrence and Katie Park and Harry Higgins, who have been visiting at Dr. T. M. Lewis', returned home Sunday. John Waters, who has been quite ill for several weeks, is now convalescent. Miss Lanthie Snow left Thursday for and extended visit to Howard Lake, Minn.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Dr. Talmage, it seems, has been feasted by the Czar and speaks loudly in commendation of the Autocrat of Russia. It was a great condescension in the Czar to shake hands with the great cleric and wind-mill of the 19th century and the doctor will doubtless never cease to admire the great ruler who deigned to grasp his republican paw and give him a square meal.

—In the absence of Judge Morrow, Hon. John W. Yerkes, of Danville, presided over the Garrard circuit court during the closing days of the present term. His courtesy to the members of the bar and ingenuities, together with his ability and promptness in deciding all questions that were presented, won for him the commendation of all who had business in the court.

—Miss Leila Bryant, of Louisville, is visiting Miss Kate Warden. Miss Robinson, of Elizabethtown, is the guest of Miss Ellen Owsley. Mrs. George Bruce and son, Howard, are spending the week with Mrs. Mary Royston. Miss Amanda Anderson leaves in September to take charge of the London Academy. Miss Bessie Webb, of Danville, who was the guest of Miss Kate Warden, returned home. Miss Kate McFarath, of Bryantville, is visiting Miss Jennie Brunsdale. Mrs. Cotton, of Missouri, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Susan Price. Mr. Tom Herring and family are visiting in Hustonville. Master Geo. Dinslip, of Camp Nelson, is visiting his grandfather, Gen. W. J. Landrum. Little Bob Moore, of Bryantville, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Geo. Lawson. Mrs. D. M. Lackey has returned from Louisville.

—The brave soldiers who are engaged in the business of killing the strikers in New York, Pennsylvania and Tennessee are entitled to credit for assisting in the enforcement of the laws, but it is not likely that they will receive any medals for their bravery, unless they get them from Carnegie, Frick, Depew and the rest of the millionaires whose avarice has been the chief cause of the trouble and bloodshed. The laborer has as clear a right and one far more valuable to the State, to better his condition by his skill and industry, as the capitalists can plead for protection in the enjoyment of his property. If the pretended statesmen who are in charge of our public affairs would give as much attention to the conflict between capital and labor as they are giving to keeping themselves in office, they would be doing something more worthy of the approbation of the public.

—A Louisville, Md., expresses the opinion that cholera is liable to break out at any time and any place, in that being transmitted from point to point as is generally believed by Dr. McClellan of the U. S. Army and others who have thoroughly investigated the subject. The last time the disease was in this country it was brought to Lancaster from a town in Tennessee, where the disease was prevailing, by a man named Benajah, who died within a few days after his arrival. Some 50 cases or more followed, some two-thirds of which proved fatal and every case was distinctly traceable back to Benajah. No one had the disease who had not been associated in some way with some other person who had been about those who were stricken with it. The introduction of the disease at New Orleans, its progress up the Mississippi by boat and rail; its distribution throughout the country along the public routes of travel are well known to the public and it is doubtful whether any case occurred in which the patient had not been either in the immediate presence of the disease or in some place where it had been prevailing. If decayed vegetation or filth of any kind was likely to produce cholera, why is it that the disease is not constantly making its appearance? There is only one safe way to avoid the disease and that is to prevent its introduction into our ports; or if that cannot be done to shut it up to the smallest possible compass and keep away from it.

—About noon Saturday a message was received from Paint Lick stating that a bloody fight had taken place there in which Humphrey Best was killed. From a party who went to the scene of the battle we gather the following: Some time ago Best had some trouble with John Campbell, of Madison county, at the mill at Paint Lick. Since that time there has been a bitter feeling existing between the parties, though they never met afterwards until last Saturday morning at McKnight's store in Paint Lick. Best spoke to Campbell, who refused to notice him, and as one witness says, Best remarked, "Well, if you don't speak to me, all right," and the firing commenced. No one seems to know who fired the first shot. About ten or 12 shots were exchanged. One ball, a 45, struck Best and passing through his heart, killed him instantly, but Best emptied his revolver before falling dead. Campbell was shot through the right lung with a 38 ball and has some chance for recovery. During the shooting another boy named Hammond was struck by a bullet, which went through his shoulder. Both boys were bystanders and had nothing whatever to do with the fight. Will Best, a brother of Humphrey, was present, but was unarmed and took no part in the fight. It is said that Humphrey was under the influence of liquor and had been all morning. Humphrey Best was about 25 years of age and leaves a young wife and baby. He had been in a great deal of trouble and his face was a very familiar one in the court-house. Shortly after his father's death he commenced drinking and was a terror when under the influence of liquor. But Humphrey is dead now and his faults can be buried with him.

Colored Teachers' Institute.
